MYTH DEMOLISHED!

there is a myth I didn't even know I cherished until it was demolished then I knew by the distress this caused me that alas and alack I had cherished it and so it was that in the year 2012 of the Common Era formerly known as Anno Domini

I was startled out of my wits by an investigative report in the New York Times that took my cherished Cloud right out of the sky and not only brought it back to earth but looked inside and revealed its wormy guts of wires pipes and switches that wasted more energy than millions of americans watching tv and spewed more polution than Ronald Reagan's trees

I had cherished the myth that the Google Cloud and the Amazon Cloud and the ATT Cloud and all the other info clouds were actually above my head like real clouds and that like real clouds they were made from the moisture of pure information and that they were soft and served as transport for angels who did only good by interceding with corporations on behalf of humans this wasn't true at all and if this wasn't true I reasoned is it possible that underneath all the endearing baby words google moogoo doodle apple facebookie booboo alibaba yahoo godaddy are giant alien monsters holding cute puppets while eating up our wallets brains and language and if this is true then is it too late to give up language and start talking in signs like people did in my commie childhood when we didn't want to be overheard if only I'd remember how it used to be fun to spy a bit of thigh when the matrix crossed its legs but it's too much now
